

Angel Adcock

July 23, 2009 - November 1, 2023

Angel was our only girl, and she made sure everyone knew it, she demanded her space from male dogs, but never from us, she was the queen of the house.

She made sure to let everyone know she loved them, with her spins, tail wagging, face licks and occasional secret bites off our plates.

Her eyes spoke for how she felt, and she looked right at you with her warm brown eyes to express how happy she was just to be there.

She was along all the rides of our lives for the past decade, and was devoted to us as we were her. She was the kind of dog that you'd break the rules for, like snuggling up on the couch with, occasionally give her an extra treat, because well, she was angel, she was our girl.

You couldn't leave a room without her following you, or come back home without her protective bark waiting for you. She wanted us to know she'd always be by us, and she made sure of it.

Angel loved us so deeply like we did her, When she'd curl up under your chin or laid with you, you just knew why her name was angel, because she was one.
