“ Oscar had such a zest for life. We knew Oscar had an enjoyable life because of his loving parents, Anna and Stanley. I have many loving memories of Oscar especially of him playing fetch with his favorite ball. His joyous spirit and fun-loving demeanor touched everyone who met him and will live on in our hearts. He will be deeply missed.

“ Oscar your spirit will live on. May the jerky treats and belly rubs in Heaven's dog park be as endless as your energy was on earth.

“ Stan & Annie,

The bond between a dog and their owner is unlike any other. Oscar's tiny little paws have crossed the rainbow bridge. The time you had with him was shortened unexpectedly but those amazing memories will always hold a special place in your hearts. We never came across a dog that had so much energy as Oscar, and would always want your attention in his presence.

You will be missed Oscar.

“ I will surely miss walking little Oscar. The kids at Byrne always commented how cute he was while they were on recess. The excitement of seeing other dogs on his walk even though they were on the other side of the street was so cute because that little tail would go a hundred miles an hour.

I know how precious he was to both of you. He was a special little dog with whole lotta personality. Run free little guy with all the other doggies and catch every ball in every color that heaven has for you!

“ We will miss Oscar forever. I already miss walking him, but I will miss it even more now. I remember how he would never wanna come inside if I just took him to the backyard instead of taking him for a proper walk. How he would walk me rather than I walk him. How I could never pull him away from sniffing a “sweet spot” in the grass. How he would never let me leave the house after his walk without playing with him and his toys, if only for a bit. How, for the longest time, he would always run from the sofa to the bedroom when I came to get him for his walks. How I would sometimes have to give him belly rubs before he would go with me outside. How, after years, he finally greeted me at the door always ready to go. How you could hear him coming from a mile away because of all those medals on his collar. And how he would always be on the top of his sofa waiting for his mama and daddy to come home.

Silence can be the most uncomfortable thing or a very peaceful thing, depending on who you are. But the silence without Oscar is something that will be very hard to get used to. The silence in the house, and the silence in our hearts, will be the loudest silence one could ever hear.

But worry not, Oscar will be with you forever. Every time you go for a walk, he will be there, right next to you. Every time you go for a car ride, he will be there on your lap as you're driving. Every family gathering, he'll be there - in spirit and in everyone's hearts.

I wish I had more pictures of Oscar, but sometimes the things that are most dear to us are only held onto by memories, and man did he give us great ones.

*Love you forever Oscar,
Alex and Andrea*

“ Oscar was known as the energizer bunny at our house. So full of spirit. Quite the spitball that little guy. He always wanted to play and could all day. Especially loved playing ball. He should have played for the Sox. Probably would have been better. Ha ha. We love you Oscar and will miss you terribly. Xoxo

“ Oscar, you were more than just a dog, you were an honorary member of the Bobek family. Your boundless energy and playful spirit touched our hearts deeply. We will miss our long walks around Creekside and Dziadzius subdivision. We are grateful for the cherished moments we shared and the love we received from our Goddog. Oscar has left this world, but the love and joy he brought into our lives will never fade. Rest in peace little man, you will be deeply missed.

“ To my little buddy! You always thought you were bigger than a Yorkie, you were a tough guy who protected the house, anyone who walked in knew they had to get through you before they can get through that front door.

You were the peacekeeper as you did not like when anyone raised their voice, you were my teddy bear and snuggle buddy at night and you laid in bed and kept an eye on me anytime I was sick. You were my alarm clock when I overslept as you pounced on my chest, or licked my eyes to get me up in the morning even though I secretly think it's because you really wanted that walk already. Officially you were grandma's puppy and I remember I didn't want you, but she said keep him and you latched on to me and melted my heart to the point I couldn't give you up. You loved your camping, your car rides and you certainly loved people especially kids! I left you for a few hours and I came home and I have no idea what happened to you, but to me, my heart shattered as I saw you laying there on the floor and there was no sound to be made except the tears and grief coming from the disbelief. You were too young and too healthy to leave us but wherever you are I hope you are chasing those bunnies in the squirrels. Mama loves you very much 💔🌈❤️👍

Oscar, I miss you! I love you! You were a big dog in little body and always greeted me when I got home. You always greeted me when I came home and you were my motivation to be get fresh air and be healthy. You inspired me and you walked me not me walking you. I miss your ear kisses. The silence in the house is unbearable! I hope wherever you are you are happy. Daddy is crying because he misses you.
