

Ruffles Coriano

February 8, 2023

Remembering the very first day we met him,

Unfussy, scruffy little thing, scared, and timid.

Fate would reveal Qs future little furry friend,

From the moment he felt safe to sit next to him.

Love at First Sight, Ruffles curled up his head.

Ever so slightly off his bed,

Serendipitously, onto Qs leg.

Without hesitation, Q gently petted Ruffles.

Employees intervened, all worried and puzzled.

W hoa, be careful. Please do not do that.

I'm afraid he might bite you or nip at your hand.

L ittle as he is, he's a bit skittish.

L ulled to this corner and somewhat suspicious.

A lready comfortable, without fear or dread,

L aunched a Great Bond, despite what was said.

W illed from Q to his new furry friend,

A long-lasting kinship that would never end.

Y ielding years of many memories with our pup.

S o many cherished moments we had stored up.

Remember...

We were elated that we finally found,

Our Wonderful and Happy-Go-Lucky Hound.

When we took him home with food, toys, and a bed.

Not knowing the True Joy that lay ahead.

From wagging his tail and acting all tough.

To resting in his bed, all snug as a bug.

Or when he would scurry around after his bath.

Escaping the towel, 'cuz he was just that fast.

Always running and shaking water off his back.

Until he would get tired and lay on his mat.

Or when he would fetch his pirate toy from the floor

And then bring it back to us to play tug-of-war.

Or the plush blue dog where he laid his head,

'Cuz he was too tired to play instead.

These are the moments we'll remember the most.

For there were so many, too many to post.

Outside of the time we had together,

The most important was the latter...

It was the last night he laid his head,

While he rested peacefully on his bed.

We said "Goodnight" with many tears in our eyes.

Knowing in our hearts this was not Goodbye.

We envisioned a place that was not sorrowful.

A joyful world without illness or pain.

Where we will be together with Our Wonderful,

And Happy-Go-Lucky Ruffles again!

We Love You So Much!

You will be missed!
